Bard Duncan Ban's Ben

THE CLIMB from Tyndrum to the county march, where road rail and Way all come together, reveals mighty Beinn Dorain in all its majesty. Celebrated by the Gaelic bard, Duncan Ban Macintyre, it is one of the less challenging Munros to climb. The Way skirts beneath it towards Bridge of Orchy.

Why not write home?

WHILE THEY still exist (?) we must make the most of rural postal services. Where better to send off a card to the folks back home than this carefully sculpted post box nestling in its green hedgerow in Kinlochleven.

Steaming across Rannoch

AFTER a delayed start, the Jacobite steam train resumed its daily sell-out journey from Fort William to Mallaig. Locos and coaching stock make the annual crossing of Rannoch Moor to get into position. Climate change has lessened the need for a snow fence, seen on the right here.
